Maintenance Cycle: The period of the cycle is determined by the use of the firearm. Typical maintenance by qualified personnel is recommended by the manufacturer and can typically be found in your owner's manual.

The detail required at each stage of maintenance is different based on anticipated MTBF (mean time before failure) engineering standards for parts and are listed above as general guidelines.

NOTE: Our Periodic maintenance rates do not include cost of parts.

Process: Our maintenance process follows or exceeds the guidelines established by most manufacturers. Each inspection includes a complete disassembly of the firearm at armorer level, a review of wear and tear of all critical parts requiring review by manufacturer standards and an estimate of costs for all parts replacement.
